

Krista Faulkner

Krista has been dancing since she was seven years old. She studied at Towson University Children's Dance Division, where she was awarded a full two year tuition scholarship. She was accepted into the Washington School of Ballet program and later attended B. Funk Dance Studio in Baltimore, where she switched her focus from ballet and lyrical to hip hop, jazz and tap. Krista has studied with many up-and-coming choreographers at numerous conventions and competitions. Throughout her four years of college at Virginia Tech, Krista taught many classes and styles at Dance.tech studio while also serving as captain of the Dance Company of Virginia Tech from her sophomore year through her graduation. Now back home in Northern Virginia, Krista is very excited to be sharing her passion for dance with her students at HeartBeats Music and Dance.
